

Joint Health Research Conference: Committed to better research in the NHS

Wednesday 17th June 2009

Bristol Marriott Hotel City Centre, Old Market, Bristol

Registration from 9.30am - Close at 4.00pm

The National Institute for Health Research (NIHR) and South West Strategic Health Authority are organising a joint event to promote the benefits of research in the NHS.

These joint events aim to promote the benefits of research, showcase local activity and engage further with local NHS staff and academics so that they can understand more fully the range of opportunities available through the NIHR to undertake and lead health and social care research to improve patient care and NHS services.

In addition to the plenary sessions there will be an interactive exhibition where delegates can talk to representatives from the different NIHR programmes and coordinating centres, view on-line demonstrations and participate in up to two interactive seminars.

Find out about:

Training opportunities, Working with industry,

Getting more NIHR money for research, New systems,

Networks, More R&D in primary and community care,

Public involvement in research, Our R&D vision for the future,

Getting your research off the ground, Removing barriers,

Translating research into practice, and lots more.
